AmeriPro EMS Hires Industry Veteran Marvin McLellan to Oversee Florida Operations

Jacksonville, FL – March 10, 2020 – AmeriPro EMS, a leading provider of innovative and high-performance medical transportation and emergency services, today announced further expansion with the hiring of Marvin McLellan as vice president of EMS in Florida.

"We are excited to have Marvin on our team," said Suhas Uppalapati, CEO of AmeriPro. "He brings very relevant and deep expertise in both operations and medical transport and will play a key role in our future operations and evolution. We are confident his contributions will be invaluable as we continue to sustain our rapid growth plan with a keen eye on providing a premier patient experience with the utmost safety and care."

Marvin McLellan joins AmeriPro EMS with over three decades of experience in medical transportation, health system and post-acute healthcare strategy. McLellan also has a strong background in operations leadership and served in senior leadership roles at Air Methods Corporation where he was the architect of Direct Patient Logistics, a national patient transfer call center presently serving over 200 hospitals and over 300,000 patient transfers a year. He also led MediFlight Oklahoma, the critical care transport service for OU Medical Center and served in senior EMS operations leadership roles at TransCare New York and Northwell Health, formerly North Shore LIJ Health System.

McLellan most recently served as director, business development for Lacuna Health, a technology enabled patient care management start-up division of Kindred Healthcare. McLellan also served as vice president, business development at Medical Life Holdings, a portfolio of value-based healthcare companies where he had oversight of all business development, strategic partnership, and growth activities for three value-based emergency and community-based healthcare companies.
